

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for gluing cable trees to base structures of a passenger car, particularly 5 roof liners, lateral door parts, luggage compartment lids, wherein individual cables are encompassed by a textile strip which is preferably provided with a self-adhesive coating on one side thereof, such that a cable harness is created, and the cable harness is fixed on the base structure by means of one or more double-sided adhesive tape sections.